1 Account and Registration

Many functions are available without logging in, such as read-only access to published information and working with local files. To be able to store your own data in the TextGrid Repository, however, you will need to identify yourself and login. If your institution participates in the DFN Shibboleth federation, you may simply use your institutional login. Alternatively, you can register for a TextGrid account from the TextGrid website

https://textgrid.de/en/registrierung/download

After your registration has been confirmed, you will receive an e-mail containing your access information.
